AN APPEAL TO ALL GOVERNMENT AUTHORITIES

We, the children of Mario B. Crespo a.k.a. Mark Jimenez, would like to express our deepest concern for the safety and well being of our mother and stepmother, Carol Castañeda Jimenez, who continues to be detained by her partner, our father, and certain officers and employees of SilverCrest Foundation.

Last May 16th, at 10:00 A.M. at Tuscany Condominium, Makati City, eight men forcibly took our mother and stepmother . This, despite a Temporary Protection Order granted by the courts protecting Carol and our brother, Miguelito, from him. In total disregard of the law and lawful court orders, she was taken away from loved ones, as well as the doctors who have been caring for her epileptic illness and emotional stress.

Our father claims that our mother and stepmother is suffering from drug addiction and/or mental incompetence.

This is not the case. He may be in complete denial that he has been the cause of her suffering.

We are deeply worried that she is not getting the proper medical care for her epileptic illness, and the mental duress of not knowing where her children are or when her liberty will be granted. This certainly could worsen her condition, or worst, cause her to die.

We would like to ask the assistance of all authorities of the State, the courts, in particular, in supporting the Petition for the Issuance of the Writ of Habeas Corpus that the family has filed in behalf of our mother or stepmother, Carol Castaneda Jimenez and the execution of the rescue order dated 16 May 2007 of the Regional Trial Court, Pasig City, Branch 69.

We also ask for the instrumentalities of the state to act with dispatch in helping us recover custody of our mother and stepmother.

Signed,

Children:

AEV plans more investments in power, logistics

By Irwin R. Sirio Cruz
Inquirer Visayas

CEBU CITY—ABOITIZ EQUITY Ventures (AEV) is scouting for opportunities to further invest in the power sector and the logistics industry.

AEV president and chief executive officer Jon Ramon Aboitiz and AEV's wholly owned subsidiary Aboitiz Power Corp. (APC) would venture into more power projects using the proceeds from an initial public offering.

"Through this IPO, we intend to raise capital to continue our expansion in the power sector through investments in the new projects," Aboitiz said during AEV's stockholders' meeting held last Monday.

Aboitiz said APC planned to acquire more assets of the National Power Corp. as well as expand its generation business.

In April, the APC bought 50 percent of East Asia Utilities Corp., which operates a 50-MW diesel plant serving the Mactan Economic Zone in Lapu-Lapu City.

The company also bought 60 percent of a 70-MW thermal plant in Cebu City, one of Cebu's biggest plants.

The plant has a contract to supply 52 MW to Visayan Electric Co., a power distribution firm serving Metro Cebu.

APC would continue to expand its power distribution business segment by buying distribution utilities in the government's economic zones, he said.

To prepare for its participation in the energy industry's retail competition, Aboitiz said the company has obtained the necessary licenses from the Energy Regulatory Commission.

AEV also expected improved performance from its transport group after implemented changes in its operations.

"Since the first quarter of 2007, our transport group has begun to operate with a new business model that enables us to be more competitive, flexible and profitable," Aboitiz said.

The Aboitiz Transport System would focus on increasing freight capacity and roll-on roll-off operations, he said.

Aboitiz also said the joint venture with MCC Transport, a subsidiary of the Maersk Group, one of the largest shipping conglomerates in the world, would start offering domestic container services in June.

In January 2007, he noted that 2GO launched a supply chain division, which provides its present customers with a more efficient and cheaper option of transporting, handling and storing goods.

On banking, Aboitiz said AEV would complete the integration of Bank with UnionBank this year.

The Cebu-based City Savings Bank, on the other hand, would continue to expand its network in the Visayas and Mindanao.

AEV posted a profit of P3.73 billion in 2006, 35 percent more than the 2005 earnings of P2.5 billion, Aboitiz reported.

He also noted that the company's revenues have grown at a compounded annual rate of 15.5 percent, from P11.2 billion in 2004 to P[illegible] billion in 2006.

The power group contributed close to P2.3 billion, about 56 percent of the total contributions from the AEV's business segments, said Erramon Aboitiz, AEV executive vice president and chief operating officer.

The banking group and the food business contributed P1.1 billion and P[illegible] million, respectively.

Council hits PPA for 'faulty' port design

By Ephraim Aguilar
Inquirer Southern Luzon

LEGAZPI CITY—ALBAY'S REGIONAL Development Council yesterday hit the Philippine Ports Authority for the alleged faulty design of the P[illegible] million Pantao Port in Libon, Albay, which was wrecked by typhoon Milenyo last year.

The RDC, represented by local government units, nongovernment organizations and line agencies, wanted third-party engineers to do the official inquiry.

"We like to find out whether it was the PPA or the contractor who's responsible for this. But definitely, no one can be absolved," said Albay Gov. Fernando Gonzalez.

The PPA, for its part, concluded that the "extraordinary magnitude" of the typhoon caused the extensive damage to the two-year-old port.

The council and third-party engineers, on the other hand, asked the PPA to study the design and the materials used in the port construction.

The RDC also expressed doubts on whether there really was a detailed engineering study conducted before the construction.

Gonzalez also criticized the PPA for proceeding with the construction of the port's second phase after the typhoon without changing the design.

"What will happen next? You have rushed to start the completion of phase two. We cannot afford the same mistake to happen again," Gonzalez said during the meeting.

The council demanded that the PPA furnish it copies of the findings of all studies conducted in relation to the construction of the port.

Gonzalez said the council wanted validation if the port was properly designed and if the construction was done in accordance with the design.

The Pantao Port was supposed to be an alternative port to ships coming from the Visayas.

The port was inaugurated by President Macapagal-Arroyo on May 27, 2005.

Iloilo joins environment study

By Ma. Diosa Labiste
Inquirer Visayas

ILOILO CITY—SCORES OF SCIENCE TEACHers, educators and scientists from Asia and the Pacific have transformed Iloilo into one big laboratory that will join the worldwide effort to understand the Earth's environment.

The Philippine Science High School Western Visayas is playing host to the International Globe Training Workshop, which will conclude on May 25, attended by trainors and teachers from 15 countries.

Globe, which stands for Global Learning and Observations to Benefit the Environment, is an interactive school-based science education program.

It is funded by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (Nasa), the National Science Foundation and the US State Department, and also implemented through the Colorado State University and the University Corporation for Atmospheric Research.

The Philippines joined Globe in 1996, and is now among 110 countries in the network. There are 40 high schools in the Philippines that are Globe members.

Teresa Kennedy, deputy director of the Globe program, said Globe aims to produce the next generation of scientists.

Through the program, students will be taught how to take measurements of the air, soil, water and vegetation.

The data gathered may be uploaded to the Globe website, which contains a variety of data taken from various sources around the world.

To date, students have contributed 16 million measurements to the Globe database. These measurements were products of science projects, some of which were done in collaboration with scientists.

The five-day workshop here in Iloilo City run by 25 international trainors, will familiarize high school teachers with the protocols when carrying out scientific measurements on atmosphere, hydrology, soils and land cover, among others. It would also include data analysis and entry to Internet.

Some field studies would need instruments like Global Positioning System (GPS) and other sensors.

The last day of the workshop will have an "inquiry field day" at Bulabog Putian National Park, known for its forest cover.

The Globe trainors came from Fiji, India, Maldives, Marshall Islands, Nepal, New Zealand, Palau, the Philippines, South Korea, Australia, Sri Lanka, Thailand and the US.

The workshop participants came from public and private high schools in Panay Island and from Philippine Science High School campuses in the Philippines.

PSHS Western Visayas director Josette Biyo said the workshop would enhance science teaching in the region and improve students' access to science and math.

Wilfredo Licuanan, a marine ecologist from De La Salle University, said science educators should take time to observe and study. He told participants that the community could benefit from their expertise, objectivity and creativity.

This is the second time that the Philippines hosted the Globe conference. The first time was in 1999.

In 2005, using the protocols, the Globe program in the Philippines, in cooperation with the Indonesia University Alumni Foundation Philippines and PSHS main campus launched a marine training to help monitor the condition of Manila Bay.

IT MAY HAVE BEEN AN ATYPIcal family destination but for the Holy Week, the four of us elder siblings (that's everyone minus our naughty 9-year-old brother) swanned off to Bangkok for a sort of sibling bonding. Our parents were more than happy to grant our vacation since they were too busy with work to leave Manila. None of us had ever been to Thailand and so wanderlust directed us there.

Patty Ortega and Ram Sagad's passion for healthy living bag them the Century Tuna model search prize

I BELIEVE THAT WE SHOULD recognize the beauty of Filipinas more; just like our foreign counterparts, we also have what it takes to make a mark in the modeling industry," said 23-year-old Patty Ortega. "Our morena complexion should be considered an asset instead of hiding because we stand out and look uniquely beautiful."

Ortega, the female winner of this year's Century Tuna Superbods search, brought down the house with her candid answers during the question-and-answer portion of the brand's annual search for image models.
